

a Little of This and That in - - OUR TOWN

Thunder In The Forest—

A sound resembling rolling thunder greets you as you travel deep down into the south west corner of Beaver Creek Township in Crawford County these days.

Your editor in company with John Bruun paid his first visit to the newly developing Beaver Creek oil field a few days ago and watched the drilling rigs of the Pure Oil Company and the Superior Oil Company probing the bowels of the earth for that badly needed "black gold." In the adjacent county, just across the line, the Sun Oil Company drilling crews are also hard at work on their leased acreage.

At the site of the wells already brought in, you find the trees fallen under brush neatly bulldozed away, for safety's sake and for easier working space. Tank farms have sprung up to hold the precious liquid as it comes bubbling up from nearly a mile depth under tremendous gas pressure.

Pure Oil Company alone expects to invest a million dollars in their Beaver Creek expansion this year. Mr. Bruun told us. Wages and personal property tax on drilling rigs, pipe lines and tank farms will all come pouring into our community from this newly discovered field. Besides this, Mr. Bruun explained, the wells are brought in, the companies will expand their leaseholdings to privately owned property in the area bringing thousands of more dollars to our area.

As we neared the thundering diesels that turn the huge rotary drilling rig of the Superior Oil Company, several deer completely undisturbed were seen amongst the pine. Fortunately the oil pool is some distance from any lake or stream and for that matter, some distance from any farm land. However, the clearing of well sites and the drilling operation and other work has certainly not upset the game in the area as many deer were observed throughout that part of the township.

A trip out to the field will tell you far more than words. It's just a nice trip and well worth anyone's time.

All the Living Day • • •

Henry Suburban reaches out at 7 A. M. of a bright May morning to turn off the alarm clock (price: $5; tax $1). Accompanied by the trebling of birds, he climbs wearily out of bed (price: $195; annual personal property tax, $750). As a radio newscaster reports, he walks across the floor of his $8,000 house (annual general property tax, $250), and switches on the electricity (33c tax on his $10 monthly bill) which lights the bulb (price: 20c; tax, 1c).

To music from a bedroom radio (price $30; tax, $3), Henry shaves with his electric (see above) razor. As a radio newscaster reports, he increases income taxes and imposes a general sales tax on everything anyone buys. Henry slaps across his jaws a handful of bay rum (price, $1.30; tax, 21c).

He dresses quickly, hurriedly fastening cuff links (price $3.50; tax, 70c), and a class ring (price, $14.50; tax, 30c), puts on his Swiss wrist watch (price: $60; tax, $12*), and rushes downstairs. Tucked under one arm is a leather briefcase (price: $18; tax, $3.60), which carries papers from his real estate office, including a deed (property valued at $3,000; stamp tax, $3.30).

In the kitchen, he's just in time to snatch two slices of bread from the electric toaster (price: $16; tax, $3.20), lift his coffee from the gas stove (price: $190; tax, $19) and grab a glass of fruit juice from the refrigerator (price: $300; tax, $30).

A glance out of the window shows it's raining, so he calls to his wife (marriage license, $2) to telephone (monthly bill: $12; tax, $2.05) for a taxi. Too many other people want taxis on a wet morning so Henry gets out his own car (price $1,800; tax, $105*) and drives (operator's license, $1) to the railroad station.

Henry relaxes at the station with a cigarette (price per pack: $4; Federal tax, 7c), lit by a match (tax: $1.50 per 1,000). Aboard the train, Henry gives the conductor his ticket (price: 85c; tax, 13c) and settles down to a hand of bridge with three cronies, using of course, a deck of cards (price: 40c; tax, 13c).

In the city on his way to the office, Henry stops to buy a roll of camera film (price: 20c; tax 5c) and a box of Kodak (price: $1.00; tax, $1.00). He also buys a bottle of whisky (price: $2.20; tax, $2.60).

Arriving eventually at the office, Henry signs two tax returns to a day's work (annual income tax, $5,000; Federal and state income tax, $510). If he works hard for the rest of his life, he will be able to provide the government with a handsome slice of inheritance tax. And if he dies in a state that is fiscally tolerant, he can take comfort in the thought that his estate (provided it costs less than $100—will be exempt from any sale tax).

Not counting customs duty of $8; tax of 5c on each pound of a new part or necessary accessory; state and Federal gasoline tax average 5 1/2c per gallon.

C. J. McNamara Passes Away After Sudden Stroke

Services To Be Held This Morning

Funeral services were to be held at St. Mary's Church at 10:00 this morning for Charles J. McNamara, 63, who passed away at Mercy Hospital on Monday.

Mr. McNamara, who had been in business in Grayling for over 23 years was stricken at his home on Peninsula Avenue on Friday and was rushed to Mercy Hospital. His death was attributed to a cerebral hemorrhage.

Rev. Father Francis Branigan will officiate at the services this morning and interment will be at Elmwood Cemetery. All of the business places Grayling will be closed from 10 this morning until noon in respect for the deceased. Grayling's airport, McNamara Field, which this spring was rededicated in the name of Charles J. McNamara, Jr., will also be closed all of this morning.

Funeral services for the services of the veteran Grayling druggist will be Dr. J. F. Cook, Dr. C. G. Clippard, Alfred Hanson, A. J. Joseph, Clarence Johnson, Dr. Claude R. Keyport.

Charles McNamara was born in Gladwin on September 2, 1885, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael McNamara, who preceded him in death. He is survived by his wife to whom he was married on August 12, 1920; one son, Larry, and a brother, Frank, of Gladwin.

Another son, Charles J. McNamara, Jr., preceded him in death. Young Chuck passed away in June, 1941, as the result of injuries received in an air crash.

After graduation from college as a pharmacist in 1905, Mr. McNamara in partnership with James Gidley bought a drug store in East Jordan. He was in East Jordan at this store until the two men purchased the store in Grayling from Addison M. Lewis on March 1, 1925. Mr. McNamara and his family moved at that time to Grayling. A short time later, the two men purchased an interest in a drug store at Petoskey.

Mr. McNamara was a member of St. Mary's Church and the local chapter of the Knights of Columbus. He was also a charter member of the Kiwanis Club of Grayling. He was extremely active in the development of winter sports at Grayling and during the history of the Grayling Winter Sports.

The post-mortem office in the corporation being his last president when the park was shut down during the war years. He was also a member of long standing in the Benevolent Protective Order of Elks, Petoskey.

Mr. McNamara was a good fellow and a real community booster. He was loved by all who knew him and his passing is a definite loss to Grayling.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Johnson and son, Ted, of Detroit are spending a week vacationing in Grayling.

Grayling Independents Run Season Score To Eleven Straight Triumphs

Comins Is Victim Of 18 Hit Attack

The Grayling Independents ran their season's score to eleven straight triumphs as they ran roughshod over Comins last Sunday to win by a 10 to 1 score.

Bob "Musty" Gildner was on the mound for Grayling again and turned in a masterful job. Although he gave up 9 hits, he kept them spaced out to the extent that Comins was only able to score the catching duties.

Comins used Sanderson and A. Abbe on the mound with R. Abbe backstopping.

Eddie Carlson turned in a good job at the plate Sunday as he rapped out a double and triple. Childer also connected for a triple and Bud Caid slashed out a two bagger.

Grayling with but two scheduled league games remaining on their schedule are virtually assured of the league crown and it appears that a perfect season is not far away for them. Roscommon Shamrocks appear on the Grayling field next Sunday with Mio scheduled to invade Grayling on Sunday, August 8 to windup the current scheduled season.

League playoff games will follow the regular season.

Grayling pushed over a run in the initial inning and followed with two runs each in the third, fourth, fifth and seventh and ended their last run in the ninth. Comins scored their lone counter in the third inning.

Grayling in their eleven victories have chalked up 133 runs against 36 by their opponents.

They have averaged 11 runs a game against a little better than 3 runs a game scored against them. Grayling, a non-league opponent, scored 21 of the total 38 runs that have been scored at the Independents.

Grayling met and defeated Gaylord twice. Once in Grayling by a 15 to 14 count and later at Gaylord, where the score was 8 to 7.

Thus league opponents have pushed 9 runs over the plate against Grayling, an average of a little over 1 run per game, as another non-league adversary, St. Stanis of Bay City met defeat at the hands of the Indies by an 8 to 7 count.

Drum Corps To Stage Unique Show

The Drum and Bugle Corps of Grayling Post 106, American Legion will sponsor an unusual production on August 12 and 13 at a place yet to be selected. A site at Camp Grayling has been suggested but not as yet definitely set.

All arrangements have been completed and rehearsals will start immediately. Costumes, brilliant lighting effects, clever lines and dialogue feature this outstanding production of "Fun For You."

The Drum Corps hopes to make this one of the most outstanding productions ever to be staged in Grayling.

Dancers, singers, specialty features, comic skits, musical numbers and a variety of other features will be featured with all local talent in the show. Larry Gale is chairman of the production and is being assisted by William Joseph and William Johnson. The show will be directed by Miss Emilie Hunt.

Talent will be selected from the Legion Post membership, the Auxiliary and Drum Corps. Anyone interested is urged to request to attend the meetings at the Legion Hall on Wednesday and Thursday evenings.

Detroit Editor Takes Pictures on AuSable

Arthur Juntunen, travel editor of the Detroit Free Press was in Grayling on Monday to shoot some pictures on the AuSable River at the magazine section of the metropolitan paper.

Through the co-operation of Ray Snider, local canoe liverman and Chairman of the Michigan Canoe Championships and Ernest Borchers, canoe operator and starting chairman of the race, several canoes were furnished and some of last year's contestants and prize winners of the race were rounded up for pictures which will appear in the Detroit paper shortly before the starting date of the race.

Oh, yes, there was a canoe load of beautiful Grayling girls in swim suits on hand for the "glamour shots."

Former Resident Laid To Rest In Indiana

Elmer Julius Jensen, of Valparaiso, Indiana, was laid to rest in Westfield, Indiana, on July 20. Services were held at the St. John's Lutheran Church in that city.

Mr. Jensen died from shock and burns received when he came in contact with a high tension wire while on the job for the Northern Indiana Public Service Company. The deceased was born in Grayling on December 4, 1921, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jensen.

He moved with his family to Milford, Michigan, where they still reside, in 1928. He moved to Westfield, Indiana and to Valparaiso in 1947.

He was united in marriage to Lucille Jensen of Westfield, Indiana, on October 1, 1945. She survives.

Also surviving are the parents; two brothers, Harold and William Jensen, and one sister, Kathryn, all of Valparaiso.

Mr. Jensen was a veteran of World War II and saw four years service as pharmacist's mate, 1/c, with the U. S. Navy, two years of which were spent in the Pacific theater.

Relatives in and near Grayling surviving the deceased are: Mrs. Maurice Gorman, Mrs. Dan Owens, Mrs. Signe Randolph, William, Peter, Carl and Chris Jensen, and Carl Larson, autos and uncle respectively. Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Gorman and Mr. and Mrs. William Jensen and son and daughter attended the funeral services.

ENTERTAIN RELATIVES FROM DENMARK

Mr. and Mrs. Karl Fredericksen of Nykobing, Falster Denmark arrived Tuesday to visit her brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Hanson. The Fredericksens, who sailed from Sweden aboard the S. S. Stockholm, July 17, arrived in New York City on Monday. They were met there by Mr. Hanson. This is the first time that Mr. Hanson has seen his sister since 1914.

Golf Club "Box Social" Tonight

The "old-fashioned box social" will get underway at the Grayling Golf Club tonight at 7:30 P. M. Club President J. F. Cook stated today.

All members are urged to attend and please bring a guest couple with you. In fact, the public is cordially invited to attend and have some fun with us," President Cook said in announcing today.

The lunches will be eaten out of doors at tables provided by the club. The entire area will be lighted and the club will furnish plenty of hot coffee, it was said. They also promise a program of varied entertainment.

In case of inclement weather this evening, the Box Social will be held tomorrow (Friday) evening, instead.

Churches Hold Annual Meeting On AuSable

The Evangelical Covenant Church and the American-Swedish Gospel Mission held their annual convention at Cunningham's AuSable River Camp at McMaster's Bridge last week. Sixty-two persons arrived for the meeting which extended from Friday through Sunday.

Among those in attendance were three from Stockholm, Sweden, another from Louisiana and another from California. Rev. Richard Rohland of Detroit held services in the open air each day. On Saturday the entire group went for a canoe trip on the AuSable. In all 45 canoes were used. Ernest Borchers of Grayling provided 15 of them.

They went to Luzerne on Saturday evening and screened motion pictures at the church in that community. Floyd and Norman Johnson of Detroit were managers of the convention and were assisted by Grayling's Zachariah group chairman and treasurer and Ralph Peterson of Grand Rapids.

600 Men and Officers In Guard Air Wing

In the early dawn of August 1, C-47 air transports will start moving out of Detroit-Wayne Major Airport at Romulus and Kellogg Field at Battle Creek loaded with personnel and equipment of the Michigan Air National Guard. This will be the first of a series of shuttle flights marking the biggest mass air movement ever undertaken in this state as 14 Air Guard units head for the Grayling air base for 15 days of field training.

With the exception of a relatively small amount of material to be transported by motor convoys, the Air National Guard will move to its field training base via air. This will mark the first field exercises for Michigan's rapidly growing and impressive air forces.

Operations from the Grayling base on the excellent facilities constructed during the war by the army, the Air Guard units will range from according to the proposed training schedules. Fighter and bomber units will make use of the lower Osceola range operated by the Air Force on the shores of Lake Huron for aerial gunnery and bombing missions. It is also possible that joint maneuvers will be held with other Air Guard units from Illinois and Wisconsin.

More than 65 aircraft will be available for training of air and ground crews, including 31 P-51 Mustang fighters and a score of A-23 Invader speedy light bombers. It is expected that more than 600 officers and men will participate.

A formal review of the air National Guard personnel is scheduled for Sunday afternoon, August 8, at the Grayling Airport. A general "open-house" will prevail that afternoon to which the public is invited for an inspection of the National Guard equipment and personnel. Flying demonstrations will be staged by bomber and fighter pilots in their P-51 pursuit ships and A-26 attack bombers.

Brought together for the first time will be all units of Michigan's Air Guard under command of Lt. Col. Donald W. Armstrong, commanding Hq., 127th Air Group major units participating will be the 107th Bomb Sq., under command of Major Ralph W. Marble, the 171st Tr. Sq., under command of Major Lynn K. Carney, and Hq. Det. 227th Air Sv. Cpt. commanded by Lt. Col. Sterling W. Plant. From Kellogg Field will come the units of the 172nd Tr. Sq. commanded by Capt. Ross M. Norwood.

Air crews are scheduled for a full flying schedule including instrument flying, aerial gunnery and dive bombing, fighter tactics and techniques and bombing missions. All personnel are scheduled for small arms firing on the Camp Grayling range, and there will be plenty of one-the-job training for ground crews in the maintenance of aircraft and equipment.

Approximately 100 pyramidal tents will go up on the Grayling base for the housing of personnel. During the second week of the unit training, army units of the Michigan National Guard will also be encamped at nearby Camp Grayling, thus offering an opportunity for joint training. A formal review and parade of air personnel is scheduled for August 7. On the final day in the field on August 14 all planes will participate in the formal Governor's Day review with the 46th Infantry Division and attached units at Camp Grayling. This finale will mark one of the greatest mass demonstrations of Guard strength ever displayed on that historic spot.

Late Season Close May Aid Department

The latest trout season closing in many years—September 12, a week after the usual Labor Day ending—may give Conservation Department fisheries men the margin they need to plant a full one million legal size trout.

The planting of one million brook, brown and rainbow trout seven inches long or larger has been the goal of the fish hatchery men for three years. Last season they came nearest reaching that goal, with the total stocking of adult trout short of the mark by a mere 20,000.

Weather conditions permitted an earlier start in stocking operations this season. Trucks and boats that could not be obtained in the war years have helped speed the work this summer, and hatchery men believe that this time they may reach the million mark.

Each keeper-sized trout of this year's plant is marked, for the fishermen's information, by clipping of the adipose fin, the little fin on the back just ahead of the tail. The 1947 plant was marked by clipping the big dorsal fin. In 1949 the trout will go into the lakes and streams unmarked, as in the years before the two-year test to show anglers the proportion of wild to hatchery fish in their catch began.

Autos Needing Repairs Contribute To Sixth of Nation's Traffic Fatalities

By Dr. Herbert J. Stack, Director, Center for Safety Education, New York University

This is the ninth of a series of 10 articles on road and highway safety, written by nationally recognized accident prevention specialists and published by this newspaper in the interests of greater traffic safety.

It is usually too late to do anything about a defective steering wheel that suddenly fails to function when you are rounding a curve, or the head lamp that goes out on a familiar road, or the horn that is silent when you need it on split-second notice, or the right front tire—which has been looking badly lately—that blows out on a slippery highway. When these things happen, death, injury and destruction of costly property usually result, but they are no acts of God. They are wholly preventable, because they are wholly preventable.

These days a tremendous effort is being put forth all over the nation to reduce the growing threat of traffic accidents. Yet more than 30,000 persons were killed last year, and a vehicle defect was reported as a contributing cause in

An Item In The News

A short time ago an item appeared in the news which, while it didn't make banner heads, is an example of the kind of progress that serves us all.

Last year, the item said, the death rate from tuberculosis dropped to a new low throughout the nation. For the first time in our history, the number of fatalities from this cause was under 50,000.

That wasn't the result of chance. It was, instead, the result of decades of hard and often unrewarding work by doctors and other scientists. A long list of factors had a part in the achievement—better preventive medicine, infinitely improved methods of treatment for the afflicted, a generally higher standard of living, and so on.

Every major advance in medicine, save for rare instances where some revolutionary drug is discovered, is made much in this way. And the United States, with its system of medicine, unhampered by bureaucratic domination, has been a leader in conquering disease—a fact which has been proven in survey after survey. By contrast, medicine has generally been backward in the nations where it is controlled by the State—the standards of treatment have gone down while the cost, as in the case of all governmental activity, has gone up.

We in the United States are leading longer, healthier lives. Diseases which were almost sure killers not so many years ago now offer little danger. A system of voluntary prepaid medical care has been built up which brings the cost of treatment and hospitalization within easy reach of the majority of people. These are achievements of free medicine which must not be forgotten.

A manufacturer sent an efficiency expert through the factory to work out improvements. After a thorough inspection, he reported: "My only suggestion is that you bank the curve near the time clock."

Musical Comedienne—Direct From the Nation's Hot Spots

She brings an implied quality, a delightful sense of humor, a tongue in the cheek approach, a rare sense of rhythm, she pierces the pomposity so many artists assume, she tickles the keys and makes them laugh gaily, to top it she sings with a style that glows with charm and warmth.

SHORT STORY

Moving
Day

By
EDWARD EARL LEE

THE quitting bell sounded through the office and immediately ordered routine gave way to confusion as workers prepared to leave. That is, all but one. Jerome Clayton remained seated, elbows leaning on the polished top and cupped palms supporting his chin.

Jerry's abstracted gaze watched employees' hurried exits. His emotionless voice answered hastily uttered farewells.
Last Friday he had been part of that scene. This Friday . . . well, no use hurrying home to be greeted by four bare walls.

Of course, Helen would take the furniture. She had bought it by installments from her salary. Jerry recalled how her grey eyes lighted with pleasure when first she had seen the suite. "Modernistic Design," she had announced, identifi-ying it.

A slammed door interrupted his reverie causing him to glance up.
He recognized the elevator operator and realized the man was taking his last look around to ascertain if all the employees had gone. Jerry hurriedly locked the desk, slapped
on his hat and rode down.

It was then he remembered Jack's poker session, pre-arranged for six o'clock. He shrugged. All week he had been groping for a suitable excuse to tell Helen. Now that none was required, he had no desire to sit in at the game. Well, no use mooning around down here. He walked away slowly with no destination in mind, his thoughts tumbling
over one another.

So, after a year, this was the end.
Helen should have known that Grace meant nothing to him. Had he not done everything except tell her bluntly that he was not interested?
But Helen thought otherwise and had started acting up to that Charlie with the patent-leather hair.

Jerry's thoughts were rudely jerked back to the present by the sound of screeching brakes and the vitrified glare of a truck driver. He was crossing a street with the red light against him. Grinning abruptly he glanced at the street sign to determine his location, then started, surprised. He was only one block from home. His subconscious mind had directed him to the route habitually followed when returning from work.

Jerry turned the corner slowly.
Suddenly his mouth felt dry. There was a sickening void where his stomach should have been. Weights seemed attached to his feet as he shambled on unwillingly, yet unable to stop. In front of the house was the furniture. No chance of his mistaking that "Modernistic Design."
One of the draymen went in as Jerry came abreast the dwelling. The second came abreast:

"Gotta match, pal?"

"No. But will a lighter do?"

"Okay. Thanks."

He accepted the instrument and began the somewhat difficult task

Helen had started acting up to that Charlie with the patent-leather hair, of endeavoring to light his pipe with a cigarette lighter.

"Beats all," he grumbled between puffs, "how much extra work people can cause. Take this customer, for instance. We get her stuff all packed, drives to her new place, and what happens? Says she's changed her mind and wants it hauled back."

"What!" exclaimed Jerry.

"Yeah," the mover continued. "I was surprised myself. But I think she's nuts. When we get back here she bursts out crying and runs up the steps like . . . Hey, here's your—"

The drayman removed his pipe from between slack lips. He scratched the lobe of his ear with the stem and a puzzled frown
wrinkled his face.

He started to pick up a chair to carry in. Then he began to grin.
Dropping the chair, he hoisted
the loveseat on his back.

INTERPRETING THE NEWS

Saugatuck—Here on Michigan's West Dutch coast, just 12 miles south of tulip-famous Holland, is the artist summer capital of the Middle West.

As you approach the village by automobile on US-31, an illuminated sign welcomes you.

It displays an artist's pallet,
bright with colors.

Landscape paintings are on display at village shops. At the Sau-gatuck Village Hall, whose architectural lines remind you of New England, you are invited to view
an exhibit of paintings 2 to 5 P.
M. daily. An artists' ball is held in August.

And yet, apparent as it is that Saugatuck is proud of its artists,
the artists themselves are not all happy about Saugatuck's growing prosperity as a summer recreation center.

Garish electric signs tempt tourists to imbibe at cocktail bars. The blare of orchestra music is in the air. Sale of liquor is abnormally brisk at Saugatuck and Douglas.
Like the phenomenon noted by a protesting minister at Rose City, popular first stop for northbound hunters and fishermen. Saugatuck is a satisfactory place for city people to relax and unwind.

Locatons: some of whom arrive in luxurious cruisers, are inclined to imbibe freely. The artists' atmosphere of Bohemian informality lends itself well to luxury of behavior. Sport clothes are the vogue. Mother does not need to dress up. She borrows daughter's blue jeans and joins her offspring in a sidewalk parade. The jeans seem to fit more than they should. Daughter rolls up her jeans to the knees. Father's attire would do justice to Bing Crosby in Hollywood. Just about anything goes.

At night the crowds throng the cocktail bars and the Pavilion
where dancing and motion pictures are featured. On the sidewalk, if the weather permits, M.
Hasselbar, mass production artist, puts on a circus-like act under bright lights. Using a variety of brushes, he rapidly daubs colors
upon a canvass.

sign says: "Direct from artist
to you."

Hasselbar, a newcomer to Sau-gatuck, employs unorthodox and unapproved methods of mass production. He is a Henry Ford on a small scale, turning out canvases quickly to fit the consumer's pulse.

Contrasted to Hasselbar, who winters at Miami and who arrived at Saugatuck last summer for the first time, is Carl Hoermann, distinguished among all American artists in the field of dune and desert paintings. Hoermann and his attractive wife, Gibson, artist in her wholesome charm, reside at the hillside "Chalet Studio." They have a desert studio home, Rancho Mirage, California, not far from Palm Springs.

Hoermann travels to the dunes at 6 A. M. or 6 P. M. preferring the lights and shadows at that time in order to catch the mood of nature and transfer it to a working sketch.
He has disdain for those who paint from imagination and who will duplicate composition. "House
painters," he retorts.

The varying hues of lights and shadows, ranging from green,
blue, purple to golden brown,
make the Hoermann canvases a thing of joy.

The Chicago Art Institute sponsors a summer school of painting
at old Fish-Town along an abandoned channel of the Kalamazoo
River near Lake Michigan. Oxbow Inn, where the students go for their meals, is a nautical,
weather-beaten frame building, forlorn for lack of paint. The "museum," where students exhibit
their creations, is simplicity itself.
Nothing fancy about Oxbow.
Utility is first.

More than 100 years ago the town of Singapore arose at the mouth of the Kalamazoo River.
At one time it boasted of three lumber mills, two hotels and several general stores. Lots were at a premium. A total of 72 sailing boats entered the harbor in 1870.

Today a drifting sand dune marks
Singapore. The town is lost, buried.

Saugatuck is unique because of its artists' colony.

But if certain trends continue,
artists are fearful it will become a tourist night-life spot like

Greenwich Village in New York City.

New Comfort in Train of Tomorrow Coach

REMEMBER THE shoe box lunches and cinder covered seats of the old-time railroad day coach? Above, for comparison, is the day coach section of the new General Motors train of tomorrow, now on nationwide exhibit of principal cities.

The stairway in the background leads to an upper level Astra Dome, constructed of special glass and heat resistant safety glass. The seats are the famous "Sleepy Hollow" design made from studies of human measurements by Dr. Ernest A. Hooton, noted anthropologist of Harvard University.

The train of tomorrow, consisting of Day Coach, Dining, Observation Lounge and Sleeping car, is powered by a standard 2000-horsepower Diesel locomotive, manufactured by Electro-Motive Division of General Motors. The entire train is air conditioned by Frigidaire.

TRAFFIC

18 per cent of these fatal accidents. Here is one factor in traffic accidents where absolute prevention is reasonably possible—one simple means by which it may be possible to save 5,000 lives every year.

Like the human body, an automobile gives advance warning of impending danger. The steering wheel becomes loose, it is no longer as sensitive as it was when new. The tread is gone on the tires, or the white braker strip may be showing, or possibly the automobile is groaning for want of grease. These danger signs, literally shouting the alarm for immediate repairs.

All of the following parts of an automobile are essential to safe driving: Brakes, lights, steering mechanism, horn, rear-view mirror, tires—including the spare tire, windshield wipers, heater, defroster, muffler and exhaust pipe.

When they are in proper working order studies show that accident chances are greatly lowered.

Most of the states require, in one form or another, that motor vehicles be maintained in a safe condition. Sixteen states and the District of Columbia require periodic inspection of the safety elements of motor vehicles at least once, and more often twice a year. Legislators in many other states are giving consideration to the creation of required periodic motor vehicle inspection and repair.

Here are five major benefits to be derived from such motor vehicle inspection:

1. It improves the general standard of vehicle condition.
2. It maintains each automobile at a higher value level by lessening depreciation.

ing depreciation.
3. It affords opportunity to check motor and serial numbers actually on the vehicle against registration certificates, and in other ways assists in the enforcement of motor vehicle laws.
4. It improves the quality of garage workmanship in making adjustments and repairs.
5. It provides excellent opportunity for informing drivers concerning the condition of their cars and their responsibility for driving safely 365 days of the year.

Highway safety is the responsibility of the individual. Public support is necessary if wise traffic laws are to be enacted and intelligently enforced.

Health NEWS

"Health News" is presented by your Doctor of Medicine as a health service of the Michigan State Medical Society.

Scarlet Fever
"A wolf in sheep's clothing" is the way in which doctors currently are regarding scarlet fever after a study of its statistics.

Despite the fact that most people look upon the disease as a comparatively mild one, figures shed a new light on scarlet fever. While it's true that only one per cent of all the disease victims die from it, in terms of people that accounts for 455 each year, according to nationwide statistics.

In addition, 34 times that number suffer serious complications from the so-called mild disease.

Pathetic note in this history, doctors say, is the fact that these deaths and serious injuries are needless—and have been for 20 years because immunization against scarlet fever has been available to everyone in the United States through his family doctor.

The protection must be given early—immediately after a baby is 1 1/2 years old, if possible, medical experts advise. If a child has been exposed recently to scarlet fever, the family doctor may suggest an injection of scarlet fever antitoxin for temporary protection.

As immunization against scarlet fever contact with the disease, the doctor may give injections of scarlet fever toxin. Such shots usually protect a person against the malady for several years.

Medical specialists advise consulting your family physician at once if your child did not receive scarlet fever injections during infancy. That way, they say, you will aid your doctor in keeping this wolf in sheep's clothing from your family door.

Slight Raise In Water Rates

It has been announced by City Manager Max Davenport that the City of Grayling has been forced to raise water service rates somewhat to help pay for the bond issue, in order that the payments will not all have to be taken out of tax money. It is felt by the city council that it will be a revenue fair to all.

"Sewer rates have also been reclassified for the first time in 4 or 5 years. This should be done each year as the rates for sewer charge are based on the average quantity of water used by each family in a three month period in the winter," Mr. Davenport stated. "You may have been paying too much or not enough."
